Rules of Use of the Pro-Control.online Website

§ 1

General Provisions

The following Rules specify the conditions of functioning and use of the website, later on referred to as the “Web”, located at <http://pro-control.online/pl>.

The Rules particularize the rights and obligations of the registered Users as well as the rights, obligations and scope of liability of the Administrator, responsible for managing and running the Web. At the moment of registration, each new User is obliged to familiarize himself or herself with the Rules and can undertake further actions on prior consent to, and acceptance of, all of its provisions.

The following Rules are available at <http://pro-control.online/pl>.

The owner and Administrator of the Web is Pro-Project Henryk Kartaszyński, based in Chełm (22-100), ul. Wolności 35/15, NIP: 5631157423, REGON: 110005446.

The purpose of the Web is to create for the Users a transparent archive of test results from any number of devices for image diagnostics and an automatized analysis of phantom images with a possibility of verifying which test has not been passed, with indicating the cause thereof.

The moment each User initiates actions aiming at using the Web, he or she is obliged to observe the following Rules.

One should get familiar with the following Rules before opening an account in the Web.

§ 2

13. Technical conditions of using the Web are essential to the Web's accurate operation, its proper appearance in an online browser used by the User, as well as for the User's data safety saved in the Web's Account. Each and every User should observe the above terms and guidelines, and any activities undertaken differently by the User (intentionally or unintentionally) are his sole liability.

§ 4

Services

1. Through the Web, the Users are capable of:
 - creating a transparent test results archive for any number of radiological devices;
 - automatically analysing images of test sets for quality control;
 - verifying which test has not been passed with indicating the reason;
 - defining the scope of tests performed separately for each test carried out;
 - printing reports.
2. The scope of access or the scope and the way of providing the individual services of the Web – both already in existence and those to be created in the future – can be modified at any time (expanded or limited) by the Administrator, which also pertains to the possibility of adding or removing individual services by the User. The above may be dependent on the requirement of meeting extra conditions on the part of the User.
3. The Administrator makes a commitment to provide information in the Web of any changes in the scope of services and the reasons thereof .

§ 5

Rules of using the Web

1. It is deemed illegitimate to use the Web, its functionalities at any level or the individual extra services for other purposes – contradictory of, or improper for, the Web's character and subject matter.
2. Using the Web's contents for a different purpose than that arising from the Web's character and subject matter requires written consent from the Web's Administrator. Without consent of the Web's Administrator it is prohibited to copy all or part of the contents, make changes, duplicate or use them commercially in any other way. The User acknowledges that the contents presented in the Web are subject to protection based on Copyright Act and related acts as well as other regulations.

Liability

1. The Administrator will make every effort to ensure that the Web and all the services made available in it operate continuously and without any interruptions, but the Administrator shall not be held liable for any interruptions lying outside of the Administrator's influence or those caused by force majeure or an unauthorized interference on the part of the User or third parties.
